

SYSTEM AND METHOD FOR REDUCING HEAT DISSIPATION DURING BURN-IN

ABSTRACT

- 5 Systems and methods for reducing temperature dissipation during burn-in testing are described. A plurality of devices under test are each subject to a body bias voltage. The body bias voltage reduces leakage current associated with the devices under test. Accordingly, heat dissipation is reduced during burn-in.